

COMPILED BY GAZETTE STAFF
Wednesday, July 26, 2017

On fixing the Indianford Dam: The comments in the July 23 Gazette are unfounded regarding the Indianford Dam. A review of the U.S. Geological Survey table shows that the lake level has risen only an inch and a half during the month of July. This shows that the Indianford Dam is working properly. What we need is three weeks of dry weather in this total watershed. That will solve the problem.

--I fish the Indianford Dam every weekend, and I don't believe the lake district should spend any of my money to make any modifications at the Indianford Dam, the spillway or the slide gates. There is nothing wrong with those facilities.